'Making Music For All' ...

The purpose of our 'Mini Concerts', is to provide the residents of care homes with a special hour of entertainment, one that crosses generations, and engages them through music with the young people performing. All our performers are currently training at top UK theatre schools, and are all working hard towards gaining full-time careers in the entertainment industry. Many of them have already performed in major theatres around the country, from Plymouth to the West End, developing their skills along the way. The young performers use these 'Mini Concerts' as an opportunity showcase their theatre skills and share their love of music with those no longer able to visit the theatre independently. As you would expect, all our performers are fully insured to perform for your residents, and are committed to delivering a professional and engaging show every time.

Each 'Mini Concerts' is a one-hour session where the young performer will sing a selection of classic songs, and talks to residents about their training, past shows, and what it's like to be a young performer in today's world. The songs chosen for each of 'Mini Concert' are specially selected for the occasion by the performers themselves and vary from concert to concert. They generally range from the classic tunes from the 40's, 50's and 60's, songs from the big musicals, and some even include one or two more contemporary songs that have proven popular with past 'Mini Concert' audiences. Participation from the residents (and staff) is actively encouraged, although not compulsory, so please feel free to sing along!

Why not bring some West End glamour to your residents and book today!
